"I hate the Republican party with all the intensity of my nature. I intend to teach my children to hate it. I have lived hating it, and mean to go to my grave hating it."—Jesse Jackson at Fairmont on the 20th of July.

THERE is no telling how General Weaver feels when he contemplates his punctured boom in Alabama.

MR. RICHARD TRAYLICK is announced to air his peculiar views at Ritchie Court House to-morrow.

THE declaration of Senator Wallace, of Pennsylvania, that the Democrats are going to give formal public notice that they would disturb Union soldiers, is, in the light of Democratic practice, one of the most delicious bits of humor which the campaign has yet developed.

"FILICORUS" MORRIS, of the Ritchie Gazette, announces himself as a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of Ritchie county.

In his nkw to the people he says he flatters himself that he can get as many Democratic votes as any other Republican in the county. This would be rather ambitious in some counties.

THE Republican campaign song book, published by the Republican Central Cam-dead will be at the disposal of holders of tickets.

Address the Secretary of the Bishop of Rimouski. June 16, 1880.

In the course of some severe comments upon this extraordinary religious advertisement the Toronto Globe says: "The law forbids lotteries to be held for any purpose, a fact of which Bishop Langevin is probably unaware."

THERE are signs of a Democratic panic over the outlook, and well there may be.

Any experienced political observer can perceive plenty of indications that the country is not going to change parties in a time of so great prosperity. It is in the air that the Republican party will be retained in power. The drift is all that way.

Of course there is hard work for the Republicans to do, and they are preparing to do it. What they want to calculate for is sufficient hard work to secure a majority in Congress as well as to elect Garfield and Arthur. Both results can be accomplished, and both probably will be.

This idea of Democratic building in Vermont is so novel as to be almost incredible. But a case of brutal treatment of a Republican at East Middlebury is reported, which will make the Southern leaders in the art envious. It may be said to demonstrate anew the superiority of the Northern in whatever he undertakes. Mr. Farr, a hotel keeper, raised over his house a Garfield and Arthur flag.

Members of the local Hancock and English club told him to take it down.

He refused. He was taken from his bed last Thursday night, beaten, and had his head shaved. Still refusing to pull down his flag, a rope was tied around his body and he was thrown into the river. Half drowned, he was pulled ashore, and asked about the flag. Farr said it should wave. The immersion was repeated several times, and the plucky Republican not yielding, he was tied to a tree and left. When found in the morning he was senseless. He will recover, and the Sheriff and State Attorney promise to help bring the bulldozers to justice.

This promise means more in Vermont than a similar promise in South Carolina or Louisiana, and will be surprising if the tactics of Southern Democrats do not become very and speedily unpopular in Vermont.

WHILE Mr. Gladstone is lying sick of a fever the Irish compensation bill has been defeated in the English House of Lords.

The bill practically aimed to secure for certain small tenants their right in such investments as they might have made for the permanent improvement of their holdings, and its operation was carefully guarded so as to prevent at least any injustice being done to the landlords. The absolute rejection of the principle involved in the bill by the House of Lords—the vote standing 282 to 61—will not tend much to the pacification of Ireland. Lord Beaconsfield naturally availed himself of the opportunity to appeal to the prejudices of the Tories, and for a night, at least, he enjoyed the pleasure of leading a successful assault upon a prominent government measure. As the passing exhilaration of a debate is followed by nausea, headache and dejection, so the defeat of this bill in the House of Lords last evening will be followed by political qualms and depression. The vote has changed nothing, unless for the worse. The relations between the landlords of Ireland and their tenants are still irritating, injustice is thought to be practised, violence occurs from time to time, and generally throughout the United Kingdom the tenants have now received warning that the British aristocracy intend to stand by all their artificial rights even when these come in contact with what they may be roughly described as natural property rights. If there was no to-morrow in politics the Tories might be congratulated on their night's work; but as it is it seems altogether likely that cloudy weather is in store for them until they manifest a more rational disposition.

POLITICAL NOTES.

REPRESENTATIVE HENDRICK B. WRIGHT, the Pennsylvania demagogue, has announced that he is forever done with politics.

The Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin, (Rep.)

thinks that the Democrats should adopt the wise-bone for a campaign badge.

SOLON CHASE, the Greenback leader of Maine, has refused to run on the fusion electoral ticket there, and denounces the Democratic and Greenback State Committees for their plan of fusion.

If Wade Hampton will come North and repeat from the stump his remark that Hancock represents the principles which Lee and Jackson fought for, four years the Republicans will pay his expenses.

The funniest Democratic excuse for the employees of Hancock's letter is that he was hampered in expressing his views by the fact that President Hayes is his command-in-Chief! It will be pretty hard work to stretch that excuse over his silence on the tariff and currency.

WATTS says Hancock deserves to be the next President, "and, by the grace of God and the will of the American people, he shall be." Oh no, neither of those influences will have anything to do with his election. If it will be, it will be by the grace of the bulldozer, and the ability of the same as a counter.

The Philadelphia Times says: "In these days of leniency towards criminals it is refreshing to find a Governor like Cornell of New York, who, in defiance of sentimentalists is willing to take the responsibility of allowing the most petted of mur-

FUGITIVE FUN.

"A CORNER room, shady all day," was one of the demands that a modest guest made of Penrose, the clerk at the —, the other day. Said Penrose, without a smile, "Very sorry, sir, but can't accommodate you this year. We used to have rooms like that, but in order to keep them it was necessary to turn the whole building around on a spindle, and some of our best boarders said it made them sea-sick.

Give you a shady room, sir, but not on a corner."—
